Detail

To drive HGVs and PCVs at a professional and commercial level, drivers must complete statutory training to be issued with a Driver Qualification Card (DQC).

The statutory training referred to is known as Driver CPC (Certificate of Professional Competence) and applies to most C1, C1E, C and CE (HGV drivers) and D1, D1E, D and DE (PCV drivers).

First introduced in September 2008 (PCV) and September 2009 (HGV), Driver CPC has 3 main objectives:

- Improve road safety
- Underpin and expand on current driver knowledge e.g. driver hours, digital tachographs, rules and regulations etc.
- Ensure new entrants have the required skills and knowledge to carry out their duties as professional drivers.

Driver CPC is an EU Directive (2003/59) and is also designed to harmonise training and professional driving standards across the European Union. Active drivers (acquired rights) will need to undertake 35 hours of driver CPC training every 5 years.

Detail (continued)

Initial Driver CPC Training

New drivers will complete their initial Driver CPC training as part of their category C1, C, D1 or D training.

There are four modules to qualify as a new driver. Modules 2 and module 4 are part of the initial driver CPC qualification.

To obtain a licence, trainees will need to pass all of the following modules;

1 Module 1a and 1b – Theory test

Module 1a. Theory test consisting of 100 multiple choice questions. Must get at least 85 correct answers.

Module 1b. Hazard perception theory test. 20 hazard clips. Each clip consists of 2 to 3 hazards. Must get at least 67 (out of 100) points to be awarded a pass.

2 Module 2 – Case study

50 multi choice questions based on 7 different scenarios. The scenarios are designed to reflect situations a professional PCV or LGV driver will encounter in his or her working life. Must get at least 40 answers correct to be awarded a pass.

3 Module 3a and 3b – Practical test

These are both Practical driving test. Module 3a is the reversing exercise test and couple/ uncouple exercise for any +E driving licence categories.

Module 3b is a 1-hour practical driving test. This will include the show me tell me questions and the on road driving test. The HGV driving test is by far the most challenging aspect of gaining LGV entitlement.

4 Module 4 – Demonstration test

Practical associated knowledge exam. No driving is required for this part, but you will need a suitable vehicle to demonstrate your answers. It's all about what a driver does whilst not driving.

This may include checking the vehicle is not incorrectly loaded or overloaded, securing a load with the correct restraining devices, checking a vehicle is safe and in good working order before taking it on the public highway etc.

On completion of all 4 modules drivers will be issued with their initial DQC which is valid for 5 years. Within that 5 years and every 5 years thereafter drivers will then become subject to periodic Driver CPC training, i.e. 35 hours every 5 years.

Training

The first thing you will need is a starter pack. This costs £220.00 and includes:

- Provisional Application Forms D2 and medical forms D4 – you will need to book and pay for your own medical at a GP or employers doctor.
- Multiple Choice Theory Test booking and fees – module 1a theory test and module 1b the Hazard Perception Test (can only be completed once provisional entitlement is gained but can be booked on same day. You will receive results on the test day, when you've passed both parts, your theory test pass confirmation will be issued on the day). You will need these to take the module 3 driving tests.
- Case Study Test booking and fee – module 2, we can book the part 2 case studies test of the Driver Certificate of Professional Competence (CPC) as soon as you've got your provisional licence. You don't need to have passed the Driver CPC part 1 theory test.
- We will provide the revision material in hardcopy and on-line links for yourself to revise for the theory tests whilst awaiting provisional entitlement.
- Once a candidate has passed the module 2 CPC case study, they can train and take the module 4 CPC practical exam. This can be done at our approved training centre at Donington Park.

Attaining HGV entitlement to drive commercially (categories C1 or C) takes approximately eight to twelve weeks from start to finish, D1 or D generally less, but is all dependent upon test Centre availability.

This course will include everything to gain the Driver Qualification Card: (medical, provisional licence acquisition, theory training and testing, and practical training and testing). Please see our other courses to gain the varying driving licence categories.

A great deal of this time is spent waiting for provisional entitlement to be granted and theory test studying and test booking.

Rough time line for HGV / PCV and Driver CPC would be as follows:

1. book medical – (approx. 1 -2 weeks wait)
2. apply for provisional entitlement through DVLA (typically 2-3 weeks)
3. book and wait to sit theory tests (typically 2-3 weeks)
4. Book and wait to start practical training and testing (typically 4-6 weeks but can depend on availability)

This may vary depending on ability. The training prices are below;

Who Is This For?

Any driver who requires to drive HGVs and PCVs at a professional and commercial level, and need to hold a Driver Qualification Card (DQC).

Driver CPC (Certificate of Professional Competence) applies to most C1, C1E, C and CE (HGV drivers) and D1, D1E, D and DE (PCV drivers).

Once you have passed your category C1, C, D1, D you can then proceed to your +E practical training and test this can be quoted for separately.

This course is a 'turn key' solution for an employer, with all bookings and training being administered by Automotional.

Any re-tests will be charged at DVSA rate plus RED trainer time.

Outcome

Full and detailed on-going status reports will be produced for the driver & Manager.
